

Two Different Marketing Models

Albert Einstein, physicist and Nobel Prize winner, declared:

“Strive not to be a SUCCESS but rather to be of VALUE”

This principle applies in business...especially in relation to marketing.

We believe there are two choices: the SUCCESS model and the VALUE model.

Neither is right or wrong, they are just different; and they are not mutually exclusive because some elements can be found in both models.

The 80/20 rule applies to all businesses owners in a marketplace:

Some characteristics of the two models include:

Issue	SUCCESS model	VALUE model
Owner's focus:	Inward: Me and us	Outward: Others
Owner's vision:	To make money	To serve
Key character trait:	Pride	Humility
Owner's role:	Master	Servant
Goal at point of sale:	Close a sale	Open/nurture a relationship
Owner may be impacted by feelings of:	Anxiety, fear, stress, apathy, despair, discontent, frustration, discouragement	Love, joy, peace, grateful, excellence, compassion, kindness, unity, contentment, generosity

We began with a quote; let's end with one - from Bill Gates:

“Success is a lousy teacher; it seduces people into thinking they can't lose.”
